

Uganda's Urban Planners Studied Nagareyama Otakanomori

On May 29, 2023, fifteen Uganda participants of JICA Project, Urban Development Master Plan for Greater Kampala Metropolitan Area, visited the Nagareyama Otakanomori.

At the Otakanomori center, UR held a lecture of Tsukuba Express and Nagareyama Otakanomori Project. Tsukuba Express Project was comprehensive advancement of urban and railway development. National government, local governments along the Tsukuba Express line, UR and railway company worked together to complete the project.

Participants listening and asking eagerly

Nagareyama Otakanomori Project was one of Tsukuba Express project, and UR formulated the Land Use Plan, implemented the Land readjustment project, developed infrastructure, and attracted commercial facilities.

Participants are responsible for formulation of the master plan of their metropolitan and its realization. Though, they were interested in how multiple local governments and other stakeholders had been involved to realize the project. In response to their questions, we explained the legal system and the council that support the project.

After the lecture, we went around Nagareyama Otakanomori by bus and walked around the station. Seeing the area where the plan was realized, they became more and more motivated to promote their projects. Finally, a representative of them talked his today's impression and expressed their great gratitude to us.

We can provide UR's various knowledge and technology to developing countries through JICA project.
